About Children's University...

Children's University, Gandhinagar is a unique university in the country and in the whole world. When our Hon. Prime Minister Shri Narendrabhai Modi was the Chief Minister of Gujarat, a wonderful mantra came to his mind: Every Child Matters: Every child is important. The mantra gets realized in the vision of the university. In the words of Hon'ble Shri Narendrabhai Modi: "The child should be brought up with such warmth and care that one develops as physically, mentally, intellectually, emotionally and spiritually healthy human being and has the opportunity of self-realization." Children's University was inaugurated on 31st July, 2009 in Gujarat to bring this mantra and philosophy on a practical background.

At present, the University works holistically in all the four dimensions namely education, research, training and extension related to child development. The university has a total of seven schools and twelve departments for higher education.

About the Department of Education...

Children's University has four dimensions namely research, education, training and extension services within the discipline of education to realize the goal of holistic development of the child. This section carries out basic and practical research pertaining to child rearing and child education. The department strives to strengthen the state's education sector by conducting research tailored to the local situation in line with the global trends. It is also committed to broadening the results of research through education and training. For this, it runs various innovative certificate, diploma, postgraduate and doctoral level courses. The curriculum reflects Indian pedagogy, modern global trends and research. Basic subjects like early childhood education, family education and parental education are at the heart of every curriculum. In addition, periodic training programs are organized to equip individuals involved in formal and informal forms of child education. Thus, the Department of Education provides opportunities for multi-faceted development for child development sector workers as well as individuals seeking admission in the field. For this purpose Webinars, workshops, short term courses and Training classes are organized.
