

MA-2022-23

Abstract-5

Dipti Trivedi

PRECEPT ON CHILD DEVELOPMENT FROM KRISHNA'S CHILDHOOD ANECDOTES BASED ON THE MAHABHARATA

In the past, all the children living in the same family were also brought up in the same family. The parents used to tell their stories. The stories had a strong impact on the children and through them, they also instilled a sense of morality, but now the family has become a small family. Parents are busy in earning money. When children are entertained by electronic gadgets like TV, mobile phones, etc., can the moral values be developed in children? But if parents take some time and talk to their children about the good things of their childhood at a young age, then the moral values of children become inculcated in them. Because the knowledge and values received in childhood have left an impression on them. The elements found in childhood in every stage of the forest help him to grow up. He learns to face the challenges of the forest.

By learning from the experiences of childhood, the child himself is also prepared for the challenges of life. These experiences teach him that the pain and suffering of the children are a part of life. The child will be prepared to face the various situations of life. The desire to learn new things plays an important role in the formation of a child's life. A four- to five-year-old child will go wherever you lead him. What you teach him will become him. If the child is sensitive, sensitive, then tell him the stories of childhood.

It affects the child's personality. No matter how busy a parent is, he should take time to tell the child the stories of childhood.

If you tell the child stories based on childhood, then wisdom, courage, and knowledge of religion will come to him from a very young age. The child becomes aware of his own nature: The child has a special need for moral education to develop good habits. The knowledge and direction given to him to transform tomorrow into a better tomorrow is becoming a source of wisdom.

Based on Krishna's life, life's problems are solved. Even through his childhood exploits, children and elders learn wisdom and discernment. Krishna's exploits always attract everyone. Behind them, there is a treasure of philosophy and knowledge of life. Be it the incident of killing a hare or lifting the Govardhan mountain, his understanding is seen in all. Even in breaking the pot of wisdom, there was a great purpose of serving children and conveying a message to the gopis.